ACROSS THE MINER.

BY FRANCIS C. REELEN.

Ah! why do we sigh for the Joys that ar e fled?
We know they are flown forever;
And we can not go back to imay our Text
Across Time's rapid diver;
We see them die and are learned away
Across the pittless river;
And our plendings are vitte with them
stay

In the silence across the river.

But still we reach our helpless lands Buck neross the river, To phastom forms in viewless lands That lie across the fiver,
We lister long for how replies
To then to mover the river;
Weight give wasch with wiseful eyes
For agit across the fiver,

And oh! 'tis well for all to cast At times across the river, I backward glants into the Past That sleeps beyond the river.

Alas! for those who donk no joy
While sailing o'er the river; Those gold of the is all alloy, Whose mounting lasts forever.

Cheer up, cheer up! uninsppy life!
Lack forward to the morrow;
Forget cutth's binemets and strife.
And burish thoughts of sorrow;
largel. by the cut-And hands thoughts of sorrow;
For oh! beyond the treatherous thin
Of Time's tempostumer river;
Alyay upon the circual selse,
Our joys will live forever.

From this it has beanched little diseassion, the matter was bliffer out hato a discussion of the whole subject of amusement a directration, each side being maintained with a considerable degree of ability. E-periody has the thealtheal style of entertainments from discussed; the propricty, morality and decemey of the duratic, This question, in same of its aspects, has also re civel a good deed of attention in other quaters, of late. In the Northern Monthly for March are two semarkably in distre articles on topics of a kindred character, which ought to be read by every man and woman in the United States. One of them is "The Parewell of the Fig-Leaves," a r! the other, "The Bullet as a Social Evil," the first being a faithful exhibition of the shanneful extravaganers in semi-unde costunes prevalent among the feshionable classes; and the other an equally failled and caracet denouglation of the fashionable Picatres which are supported by a provincely which seeks its gratification, on one band, Li the Ballet, the Pixel Crook or the White Pawa, and, on the other, in the sectors or fashionable life.

Nothing could be house timed than those wholesome protests against a twofold cyll which is rapidly destroying the modesty of American visuam and the morals of American men. It is not long since such exhibitions as the stage performances abovemen flourd v.s. 14 have been probibled and prosecuted in any New England city, and now, should some of the fashiouslike wo then of this day show themselves in the street in the gub in which they are seen at openes and balls, they would be arrested on Washington Evening Nows.

The Times' Washington dispatch says a sport is developing itself in the Senate, growing out of personal jealousy, which esists between certain members. It seems that this personal feeling is so bitter that some interested parties contemplate a proposition for the election of a new presiding officer, so that the successful issue of the impeachment trial would not be followed by the elevation of the present Vice President to the Presidency. The difference will be conciliated in thus to prevent any exhibition of all temper during the trial.

The probabilities are that Gen. Sickles will resign his commission.

The indications are that Colorado will he admitted as a State this session, and Wyoming erected into a territory to be called Lincoln. At no time last night were there over 100 persons present at the President's reception and probably no levee has been held in the White House that was so thinly attended for the last ten years.

From the expression of sentiments by member of the Foreign Committee relative to McClellan's nomination, it is probable he will be reported upon unfavorably.

For four months, in 1866, the revenue from whiskey in the Thirty second New-York District was $1,155,000, while for the four months ending with the year 1867, the amount of revenue from the same source was but $129,720. The decrease is about in that proportion all over the country, thereby proving that frauds are so great that the Government is losing at the rate of $16, 000,000. For year from this source.
